

Letter of Credit Information Sheet

In 1994, St. Louis County (County) started using a two-agreement system to guarantee installation of improvements. The Developer establishes a Deposit Agreement with the County for one, two, or three years, and in this agreement, the developer agrees to install required improvements by a specific date. The second agreement is the letter of credit. Although the developer pays for the letter of credit, the letter of credit is made payable to the County. When issuing a letter of credit be aware of the following:

- Page two (2) seventh paragraph contains two places for the bank to enter dates. On the second line of that paragraph there is a space for an “Expiration Date”. This date is usually one year after the letter of credit is issued or another date within a similar time period that coincides with the bank’s internal review process. The “Final Expiration Date” (found in the last sentence of this same paragraph) of the letter of credit must extend six (6) months beyond the term of the Deposit Agreement. The bank should always ask the developer about the term of the Deposit Agreement, 1, 2, or 3 years, and make sure the “Final Expiration Date” (page 2 seventh paragraph) of the letter of credit is at least six (6) months beyond the term of the Deposit Agreement.
- The County must have the original letter of credit and four (4) copies of the executed Deposit Agreement before these two agreements can be sent to the County Council for approval. These documents need to be reviewed and signed by County officials; therefore, these documents must be submitted to the St. Louis County Department of Planning by 5:00 pm Wednesday to insure they satisfy the Friday noon Council agenda deadline.
- The first page of the letter of credit must be on bank letterhead or on safety paper with a bank logo. The authorized signature must be acknowledged by a notary.

If additional information is necessary please call the Department of Planning at 314-615-2520.
